PW Offers a Guide to Combos

Proven Winners is now offering "The Container Design Guide for Professional Growers," which showcases many new container combinations that will help meet this coming season's demand at retail.

After researching what gardeners are looking for when shopping for their porch or patio, Proven Winners produced this 52-page handbook that shows more than 160 plant combinations in addition to a planting schematic and plant list for each. Some combinations are organized by a featured color, while others incorporate the latest varieties in the Proven Winners line of annuals. Other growing tips and variety information is also included.

"We know growers would like Proven Winners to be a resource to help them determine which plants can successfully be grown together, and this is based upon growing requirements such as the rate of growth, habit and cultural requirements of each type of plant in the combinations," said John Gaydos, director of product development and promotion for Proven Winners. "Having this new guide in hand will help growers take the guesswork out of creating new combinations for spring."

"The Container Design Guide for Professional Growers" is available two ways—by download from the Proven Winners website, or as a flipbook, also on the website.
