Fire Destroys Building at Spring Meadow Nursery

Jennifer Zurko

A massive fire destroyed the main office building at Spring Meadow Nursery in Grand Haven, Michigan, early in the morning on Sunday, January 15. Six fire departments responded to the blaze and were successful in keeping the fire from spreading to any greenhouses or other structures.

Nursery offices are being relocated on the property and were fully operational with phone and email service by the end of that week. No plants or growing space were lost in the fire. Customer orders are unaffected and completely secure for the coming season. Spring Meadow Nursery said in a press release that the company “will continue to provide the same level of high-quality customer service and plant product as we work to replace our infrastructure.” GT
