BFG Adds Structure Company to Portfolio

Chris Beytes

Horticultural supplies distributor BFG Supply has acquired DeCloet Greenhouse Manufacturing Ltd., a manufacturer of greenhouse structures and related components. The Burton, Ohio, company says in the press release that the acquisition of DeCloet “will strengthen BFG’s greenhouse supply business by combining our vast knowledge of growing facilities and customer’s needs with DeCloet’s design and fabrication capabilities, delivering innovative solutions to our customers.”

DeCloet, headquartered in Simcoe, Ontario, was founded in 1986. The company ships greenhouse structures to customers throughout the United States and Canada.

“DeCloet’s strong reputation for quality is a great fit with BFG’s strategy to be the premier supplier for greenhouse solutions in the horticulture and CEA markets,” said Dave Daily, president and CEO of BFG. “The acquisition expands BFG’s product offerings and promises to increase value to the customers of both companies.”

Ben DeCloet, founder and president of DeCloet added, “The purchase of DeCloet by BFG recognizes their commitment to, and their positive belief in, the growing greenhouse industry across North America. I am leaving the company and its employees in good hands and am excited for the future opportunities BFG will bring to DeCloet.”
